ABSTRACT This "Guide" was prepared in order to inform educators of the variety of new materials available in the field of reading instruction. The supplement updates the original volume published in September 1968 and is meant to be used with the original "Guide." New publications since that date, as well as additional publishers who have joined the original 78, are included. Hard cover and paperback books, workbooks, audiovisual aids, teacher resources, and boxed materials are listed by publisher. Under each publisher, materials are listed under either Basal or Nonbasal categories. Information on reading difficulty level, interest level, and skills developed is also given. Levels range from kindergarten through adult. Trade books, except as special collections or series designed as supplementary materials for reading instruction, are not included. Addresses of all publishers are given. (CM)

This Guide was prepared pursuant to a contract with the Office of Education, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Contractors undertaking such projects under Government sponsorship are encouraged to express freely their judgment in professional and technical matters. Points of view or opinions do not, therefore, necessarily represent official Office of Education position or policy.

INTRODUCTION

This first supplement to the ERIC/CRIER Guide to Materials for Reading Instruction was prepared to update and correct the original volume published in September, 1968. Copies of the earlier Guide are available through ERIC Document Reproduction Service, 4936 Fairmont Avenue, Bethesda, Maryland 20014 for $1.25 in microfiche or $13.95 in hard copy. Order ED 001 453. Entries included in the original Guide have not been included in this supplement unless an error was reported by a participating publisher. Materials published after the appearance of the original Guide are also announced in this supplement. Thus, to have a complete and up-to-date listing of the reading materials published by cooperating publishers, users are advised to obtain both Guides: the original (September, 1968) and the first supplement (September, 1969).

The ERIC System

In 1966, the United States Office of Education recognized the need for more efficient use of information and research in education by creating a national network of resource centers. These centers were charged with the responsibility of acquiring, storing, retrieving, analyzing, and disseminating information in selected areas of education. The Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) system began with twelve research centers and presently consists of nineteen.

The Clearinghouse on Reading (ERIC/CRIER), located at Indiana University, specializes in information related to the following scope areas:

The Clearinghouse on Reading is responsible for acquiring research reports, materials and information related to all aspects of reading behavior with emphasis on physiology, psychology, sociology, and the teaching of reading. Included are reports on the development and evaluation of instructional materials, curricula, tests and measurements, preparation of reading teachers and specialists, and methodology at all levels; the role of libraries and other agencies in fostering and guiding reading; and diagnostic and remedial services in school and clinic settings.*

Materials for reading instruction, advice, and included in the scope notes. The Guide to Materials for Reading Instruction was the initial effort of ERIC/CRIER to gather, organize and disseminate information on instructional materials.

*A complete description of the organization and development of ERIC/CRIER may be obtained from: ERIC/CRIER, 200 Pine Hall, Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana 47401.

Purpose of the Guide

The wealth of materials available for the teaching of reading is constantly being enriched. Educators find it increasingly difficult to keep informed about new materials and therefore frequently miss the opportunity to experiment with new media and programs. The Guide is designed to serve as a current awareness vehicle which will meet this expressed need. The most recent products of publishers who are cooperating with ERIC/CRIER appear in the Guide.

While users should not attempt to order items based solely on the information provided in the Guide, the size and scope of this volume facilitate an extensive search of what is available. Each publisher can provide the user with more detailed literature and information needed to order specific items.

Items appearing in the Guide have been described through a classification process; however, no evaluative judgments have been made. This important step in the selection and adoption of materials is rightfully the province of the user. Only by studying local needs and conditions can appropriate judgments be made. It is important to note that wherever possible the publisher's descriptive literature has been used in classifying items. For example, items classified as "Basal Materials" may vary somewhat depending on each publisher's definition of the term basal.

Sources of Information

The initial Guide to Materials for Reading Instruction was based on firsthand study of materials which were supplied by seventy-eight publishers. Approximately three hundred publishers were contacted initially and asked to join the ERIC/CRIER Task Force ## on Instructional Materials.

The following guidelines for inclusion of materials were established and sent to publishers in the spring of 1967:

For the first phase of the project only "soft" materials will be included in the catalog. Films, filmstrips, and mechanical teaching aids will not be collected initially unless they are closely tied in with "soft" materials.

Instructional Materials. Only material which has been produced for instructional purposes will be processed initially. Included are basal reading materials, materials developed to teach specific reading skills, workbooks, programmed texts, etc. designed for instruction in developmental or remedial reading. Trade books will not be processed. However, special collectors or series designed as supplementary materials for instructional purposes should be included. We are particularly interested in high interest, low difficulty materials designed to aid poor readers and supplementary materials of like nature other than trade books. When in doubt about the category of the materials, please send if you feel it is applicable and let us make the decision. Please include all instructional materials currently in print.

Some publishers felt their materials did not fit the stated criteria, others chose not to join the Task Force.

The task of adequately classifying and describing the instructional materials was studied by members of the faculty of the Reading Program at Indiana University. The efforts of the following people were instrumental in the development of the classification scheme finally selected: Isabel Craig, Roger Farr, Leo Fay, Ruth Gallant, Larry Harris, James Laffey, Carl Smith, and Edward Summers. The ERIC/CRIER Advisory Board comprised of thirty leading professionals in the field of reading also participated in the development of the classification scheme.

The original Guide to Materials for Reading in Instruction was outdated soon after publication because of the enormous amount of materials continually being prepared for reading instruction. Consequently, publishers were asked to continue supplying ERIC/CRIER with samples of their latest products. Some publishers who did not participate in the development of the original Guide joined the Task Force and contributed materials to be classified.

The total ERIC/CRIER staff has been involved in this project at various phases of activity. Catherine Siffin, Director of Publications, provided expert guidance in the development of the format and layout of the Guide. Margaret Taylor assisted in corresponding with the publishers and coordinating the collation and typing of the Guide. The ERIC/CRIER staff includes:

Future of the Guide

Continued updating of the Guide to Materials for Reading Instruction is planned. This volume is the first such attempt. More detailed description of materials may be undertaken in the future as well as an expanded base to include hardware materials and trade books.

Eventually the computer storage and retrieval of information on instructional materials for reading is planned. Such a development would permit manipulation of the collection in a variety of ways. For example, a guide to readiness materials could be provided or a search conducted for all materials with an adjustment in reading difficulty.

Key to Organization

Entries in the Guide are organized by publisher; publishers appear in alphabetical order. Materials are divided into two major categories for each publisher: Basal and Nonbasal.

Basal programs in the Guide are organized into a developmental sequence beginning with readiness material and proceeding through the various reading levels. Some publishers produce materials which are designed for use with the basal program, but not tied directly to specific reading levels. These materials appear in the basal section, but follow the basal program itself.

Nonbasal materials are organized by type. This means that all nonbasal visual aids are grouped together and presented in alphabetical order. The same is true for nonbasal teacher resources, nonbasal enrichment readers, and the like.

The Classification System

In essence, seven basic decisions were made about each item in the Guide:

1. Does the publisher advertise this item as part of a basal program? (Alternatives: Basal - Nonbasal)
2. What is the setting of stories contained in the item? (Alternatives: Local Environment, Urban Setting, Literary, Other)
3. What type of item is it? (Alternatives: Reader, Workbook, Supplementary Reader, Enrichment Reader, Audio-Visual Aid, Visual Aid, Audio Aid, Teacher Resource, Boxed Developmental Kit, Teaching Machine or Device)
4. What kind of cover and binding does the item have? (Alternatives: Hard Cover, Paperback)
5. What is the reading difficulty level of the item? (Alternatives: K through Adult)
6. What is the interest level of the item? (Alternatives: Primary, Intermediate, Junior High, Senior High, College, Adult)
7. What general skills does the item develop? (Alternatives: Readiness, Word Recognition, Study Skills, Comprehension, Interpretation and Taste, Reading in the Content Fields)

The following descriptions indicate in more detail the meaning of each label:

Type of Program

Basal: Materials providing an instructional sequence from beginning reading usually to grade six or beyond. Emphasis is on control of vocabulary and development and reinforcement of reading skills through a unified approach. The various supportive materials produced by basal publishers and used with basal programs are also included as basal materials.

Nonbasal: All materials other than basal, including some basic reading programs which are more limited in scope than the comprehensive basal sequences.

Setting of Material (applies only to basal program)

Local Environment - Materials concerned mostly with home and neighborhood settings: stories in this category include a wide variety of themes and settings, as some basal readers mix urban with rural, make-believe with realism. Illustrations are usually of family and home scenes.

Urban Setting - Materials designed particularly for use with urban children, with the disadvantaged (rural or urban) and/or with multi-ethnic groups. Illustrations typically depict large city scenes.

Literary - Materials largely devoted to fanciful tales, poetry, and classics in child or adult literature. The main characters are often animals.

Type of Material

Reader - Material containing stories and articles designed to build comprehension from directed reading. These materials often lend themselves to group use in class, and in every case included learner aids of some sort. Trade books, though often used in reading instruction, were not included as "readers" unless they included study guides, a definite vocabulary unit, or some definite instructional aids.

Workbook - Expendable soft-cover materials which provide the opportunity for a written response by pupils. Ditto masters and deskwork materials not fitting into other categories were given this designation.

Supplementary reader - Readers with a clear orientation to corrective or remedial work. Classics rewritten with simplified vocabulary, high interest, low difficulty anthologies, and texts for reading disability students were considered supplementary readers. Note that this stipulated usage excludes materials often used to supplement a basal program. Such tradebooks and readers were classified as "enrichment readers" (see next category).

Enrichment reader - Readers and texts designed to be used as extensions of a basal program. Materials intended, or primarily used for extra practice, for reinforcement, and for capable students were placed in this category.

Audio-visual aid - A learning (or teaching) aid that involves both auditory and visual reception of response. Movies and talking filmstrips would be examples.

Visual aid - A learning (or teaching) aid predominantly effective through the sense of vision. Conventional printed pages of books were excluded. Wall charts, filmstrips, and posters are examples.

Audio aid - A learning (or teaching) aid predominantly effective through the sense of hearing. Tapes and records are examples.

Teacher resource - Materials directed to a teacher audience and designed to facilitate the use of instructional materials. Teacher editions, manuals, and guides are examples. College texts designed for use in teacher-preparation programs are not included in this listing.

Boxed developmental materials - Instructional games, boxed laboratories, and skill development kits were included in this category.

Teaching Machine or Device - A mechanical or electrically run apparatus for developing reading skills.

Type of Binding

Hard Cover - Limited to book-type materials having stiff bindings and inflexible covers.

Soft Cover - Booklet type materials with sewn staples bindings and flexible covers.

Does not apply - This designation was given for the types of material listed above when the terms "hard cover" or "paperback" were not appropriate.

Grade Level

Reading difficulty - Either a central grade level or a range of levels was assigned each item, according to the level of difficulty indicated by publisher or according to the apparent level or use appropriate to the material. In some cases a grade level was assigned even though the material was not strictly a text to be read, as in the case of wall charts.

Interest level - Interest levels were assigned at the same level or range of levels as reading difficulty unless publishers specifically indicated that a difference was intended. Primary refers to grades 1-3; Intermediate, 4-8; Jr. High School, 7-9; Sr. High School, 10-12; College, 13-16; Adult. The last category included any material addressed specifically to adults (such as teacher's manuals and adult basic literacy materials).

Skills Development

Readiness - Material designed to promote reading readiness primarily in kindergarten and first grade. Motivational and developmental materials as well as material that builds background were labeled readiness at other grade levels.

Word recognition - vocabulary - Material in-structing or reinforcing (drilling) word attack skills, sight word recognition, vocabulary development.

Study skills - Material including instruction in such skills as outlining, study habits, reviewing and memory techniques, flexibility of reading purposes and approach, etc.

Comprehension - This category was assigned only if specific study or discussion questions were included to aid comprehension.

Interests and tastes - Material which especially lends itself to the broadening or refinement of student interests and tastes in reading.

Reading in the content fields - Materials giving instruction or practice in the skills necessary for meeting the specific reading demands of various school subject areas.

Improving the Guide

Users of the Guide are urged to provide reactions and suggestions so that future editions can be improved. Publishers not represented in this volume are encouraged to participate and may contact ERIC/CRIER directly for instructions.
